ON-FARM TEST PLOTS

Area producers have been busy this spring planting test plots on their farms. Pictured is local producer Rick Davis adding corn test plot seed to his planter. Testing the latest varieties on-farm allow producers a first-hand look at the new hybrids companies are selling. At the end of the growing season, both producers and agronomists know which hybrids work locally and which do not. Colorado State University has assisted with 25 on-farm test plots in the region.
